

NEWS BRIEFS

Lanvin, men's fashion, Bentley and mansion taxes – News briefs

December 5, 2014

Interior of Lanvin's first boutique

---

By STAFF REPORTS

Today in luxury marketing:

Lanvin retrospective to bow

The first retrospective exhibition in Paris dedicated to Jeanne Lanvin at the Palais Galliera next year is to feature more than 100 outfits from the museum's collection and Lanvin's archives, per Women's Wear Daily.

Sign up now

Luxury Daily

Click here to read the entire article on WWD

Is New York going to have its own men's fashion week?

Uncle Sam wants you — for New York Men's Week this summer, according to The New York Times.

Click here to read the entire article on The New York Times

Bentley creates 300 jobs with Crewe R&D center

Bentley is to build a research and development center at its Crewe headquarters, creating 300 jobs as the luxury carmaker seeks to produce a new generation of models and capitalise on its global success, reports the Financial Times.

Click here to read the entire article on the Financial Times

How a mansion tax could affect wealthy neighborhoods

Luxury-home prices in 33 major cities around the world—from Los Angeles to Monaco—are up 36 percent since 2009, according to data from real-estate firm Knight Frank. The taxman has noticed, says The Wall Street Journal.

Click here to read the entire article on The Wall Street Journal

---

© Napean LLC. All rights reserved.

Luxury Daily is published each business day. Thank you for reading us. Your feedback is welcome.