

NEWS BRIEFS

US stocks, Indian consumers, Dubai and young models – News briefs

November 3, 2015

Lily-Rose Depp for Chanel, age 16

By STAFF REPORTS

Today in luxury marketing:

US stocks slightly higher as Coty makes a deal, Este Lauder beats

Subscribe to Luxury Daily
Plus: Just released
State of Luxury 2019 Save $246 ▶

Stocks are lifting modestly higher even as Asian markets closed lower on a drop in the Purchasing Managers Index in China, per Women's Wear Daily.

Click here to read the entire article on Women's Wear Daily

Luxury attire and accessory stores woo the well-heeled

The well-dressed and well-heeled Indian is being wooed in innovative ways by multi-brand luxury attire and accessory stores, says Forbes India.

Click here to read the entire article on Forbes India

Can Dubai really become a global fashion capital?

You can now add Dubai to the growing list of cities vying for the status of global fashion capital. On the evening of Oct. 29, a parade of international fashion executives, editors and models partook in a fashion show-cum-photo op tour of Dubai Mall as part of Franca Sozzani's third annual Vogue Fashion Dubai Experience, a series of events bringing together international fashion figures and the local fashion community, reports Business of Fashion.

Click here to read the entire article on Business of Fashion

Protecting underage models becomes a federal issue

Paul D. Ryan, the new speaker of the House of Representatives, has another potential issue on his hands. For the first time since Brooke Shields donned her Calvins in the '80s, spurring a national conversation, the question of underage models has reached the white dome of the Capitol, according to the New York Times.

Click here to read the entire article on the New York Times

Luxury Daily is published each business day. Thank you for reading us. Your feedback is welcome.