

NEWS BRIEFS

Sergio Rossi, Alexander Wang, Peninsula Hotels and Rolls-Royce – Live news

December 10, 2015

Rendering of The Peninsula London entrance

By STAFF REPORTS

Luxury Daily's live news from Dec. 9:

Sergio Rossi purchased by Investindustrial to further develop label

Subscribe to Luxury Daily
Plus: Just released
State of Luxury 2019 Save $246 ▶

Kering Group has announced that it is selling 100 percent of its shares in Italian footwear label Sergio Rossi.

Click here to read the entire article

Peninsula to open London hotel as part of global strategy

The Peninsula Hotel chain is furthering its expansion into Europe with a London property that will be built in the city's Belgravia neighborhood.

Click here to read the entire article

Alexander Wang rounds out offerings to include Italian-made jewelry

Alexander Wang has created his first jewelry collection for his namesake label, citing his time at Balenciaga as an exposure point for those designs to flourish.

Click here to read the entire article

Rolls-Royce targets revelers with special-edition hamper

British automaker Rolls-Royce Motorcars is helping consumers decide on shaken or stirred libations with the creation of a limited-edition cocktail hamper.

Click here to read the entire article