

NEWS BRIEFS

Jean Paul Gaultier, Lane Crawford, The Dalmore and Rolls-Royce – Live news

December 18, 2015

Beth Ditto Jean Paul Gaultier tee

By STAFF REPORTS

Luxury Daily's live news from Dec. 17:

Lane Crawford turns to Japan to explore what "fashion can be"

Subscribe to Luxury Daily
Plus: Just released
State of Luxury 2019 Save $246 ▶

Chinese department store chain Lane Crawford is embracing the new generation of talent coming from Japan in a curated edit.

Click here to read the entire article

Jean Paul Gaultier challenges high-fashion sizing in Beth Ditto collaboration

Despite discontinuing ready-to-wear, French fashion design Jean Paul Gaultier is teaming with singer Beth Ditto on a special-edition tee.

Click here to read the entire article

The Dalmore captures passion, dedication and skill via episodic series

Scottish distillery The Dalmore is exploring the savoir-faire of the luxury hospitality industry with a three-part video series.

Click here to read the entire article

Rolls-Royce continues culling talent with record apprenticeship slots

British automaker Rolls-Royce is celebrating a decade of its Apprenticeship Program by seeking a record number of young candidates for the coming year.

Click here to read the entire article
