

NEWS BRIEFS

Marc Jacobs, Mot & Chandon, Gilt and Herms – Live news

January 13, 2016

Robert Dallet drawing

By STAFF REPORTS

Luxury Daily's live news from Jan. 12:

Marc Jacobs turns to Neiman Marcus to further beauty reach

Subscribe to Luxury Daily
Plus: Just released
State of Luxury 2019 Save $246 ▶

U.S. fashion label Marc Jacobs is increasing in-store distribution of its beauty collection with placement in Neiman Marcus and Bergdorf Goodman.

Click here to read the entire article

Mot & Chandon spurs at-home celebrations with Champagne 6 pack

LVMH-owned Champagne brand Mot & Chandon is making it easier to celebrate wherever life may take consumers with the creation of a bottle caddy.

Click here to read the entire article

Gilt CEO to exit after HBC purchase

Retailer Hudson's Bay Company purchase of flash sale site Gilt will come with management reconstruction.

Click here to read the entire article

Herms pledges love to big cats in Robert Dallet exhibit

French leather goods maker Herms is showing the "fierce and fragile" side of big cats through an museum exhibition celebrating the art of Robert Dallet.

Click here to read the entire article