

NEWS BRIEFS

Turkey, Volkswagen, Kering and Gucci – Live news

June 30, 2016

The Gucci Garden print

By STAFF REPORTS

Luxury Daily's live news from June 29:

Turkish airport subjected to deadliest terror attack in country to date

Subscribe to Luxury Daily
Plus: Just released
State of Luxury 2019 Save $246 ▶

A terrorist attack at Turkey's Istanbul Ataturk airport has left 41 dead and more than 230 injured.

Click here to read the entire article

Ferragamo seeks to preserve Florentine culture in restoration effort

Italian footwear label Salvatore Ferragamo is giving back to its hometown of Florence with a project that will restore the Fountain of Neptune to its original splendor.

Click here to read the entire article

VW repents emissions scandal with \$10B class action payout

Automotive group Volkswagen has reached a $10 billion class action settlement after the brand falsified emissions data on nearly half a million diesel models sold in the United States.

Click here to read the entire article

Kering to pay \$13M to Hedi Slimane over non-compete clause

Hedi Slimane, the former creative director of Saint Laurent Paris, will be paid $13 million by the label's parent company Kering Group after the designer took the conglomerate to court over his non-compete agreement.

Click here to read the entire article

Gucci lets its ecommerce garden grow via online exclusives

Italy's Gucci is launching an online-only capsule collection of womenswear and accessories on July 5.

Click here to read the entire article

© 2020 Napean LLC. All rights reserved.

Luxury Daily is published each business day. Thank you for reading us. Your feedback is welcome.