

NEWS BRIEFS

Luxury climate, Zegna, Trump Hotels and Mercedes – News briefs

October 4, 2016

Zegna couture ad campaign

By STAFF REPORTS

Today in luxury marketing:

Even Chanel and Hermès susceptible to current climate

Subscribe to Luxury Daily
Plus: just released
State of Luxury 2018 Save $246 ▶

There's no question the past year has been a difficult one for luxury brands. In 2015, the global market for personal luxury goods grew to €253 billion (about $284 billion), up only 1 percent on the previous year in real growth terms, according to a report by Bain & Company, a global consulting firm, per Business of Fashion.

Click here to read the entire article on Business of Fashion

Ermenegildo Zegna Group buys majority stake in Bonotto

In a strategic move, the Ermenegildo Zegna Group has taken a controlling stake in Bonotto SpA, a high-end textile manufacturer based in Molvena, near Vicenza, says Women's Wear Daily.

Click here to read the entire article on Women's Wear Daily

Trump's new Washington hotel vandalized with spray-painted graffiti

Donald Trump's new luxury hotel in downtown Washington has been vandalized, according to The New York Times.

Click here to read the entire article on The New York Times

Mercedes pads US luxury lead as incentives fail to boost BMW

Mercedes-Benz outsold luxury-auto competitors in the U.S. in September, adding to its lead for the year as demand for its sport utility vehicles helped overcome a surge in incentive spending by BMW, reports Bloomberg.

Click here to read the entire article on Bloomberg

© Napean LLC. All rights reserved.

Luxury Daily is published each business day. Thank you for reading us. Your feedback is welcome.