

NEWS BRIEFS

Oscar de la Renta, luxury-brand world, Ralph Lauren and Porsche – News briefs

November 22, 2016

U.S. fashion designer Oscar de la Renta passed away in October 2015. Image courtesy of Oscar de la Renta

By STAFF REPORTS

Today in luxury marketing:

Maintaining his memory: The archive of Oscar de la Renta

Subscribe to Luxury Daily
Plus: Just released
State of Luxury 2019 Save $246 ▶

When Oscar de la Renta took his final bow following his spring 2015 fashion show, his legacy was only beginning. The collection would be one for the books: a garden-party themed collection primed for the picking by his devoted socialite followers. After the typical cycle of press, red carpets and more than a couple orders by his jet-set patrons, the collection would not rest in peace, says Women's Wear Daily.

Click here to read the entire article on Women's Wear Daily

Life lessons from the luxury-brand world

When one of your first jobs involves filing insurance paperwork for pocket change at your dad's office, it's easy to see how you would yearn later on for something more glamorous. Marla Malcolm Beck went for ultra-luxe, per Reuters.

Click here to read the entire article on Reuters

Ralph Lauren to be honored for outstanding achievement

Ralph Lauren will receive the Outstanding Achievement Award at the Fashion Awards two weeks from Nov. 21, the BFC announced, as reported by British Vogue.

Click here to read the entire article on British Vogue

Porsche: We won't go below Macan, Boxster

Porsche won't introduce any vehicles smaller than the Macan crossover and Boxster convertible in the current product lineup, according to Automotive News.

Click here to read the entire article on Automotive News

---

© 2020 Napean LLC. All rights reserved.

Luxury Daily is published each business day. Thank you for reading us. Your feedback is welcome.