

The News and Intelligence You Need on Luxury

NEWS BRIEFS

Louis Vuitton, Greece, BMW and Michelle Obama – News briefs

December 7, 2016

Louis Vuitton cruise 2017 campaign

By STAFF REPORTS

Today in luxury marketing:

Small leather goods stoke Louis Vuitton's "speedy" recovery

The pace of Louis Vuitton's recent recovery takes after one of its signature bags: speedy, per WWD.

Click here to read the entire article on WWD

Turkish-Arab investors to spend $322M on luxury Greek resort

A Turkish-Arab fund plans to spend up to about 300 million euros ($322 million) to redevelop a luxury seaside resort outside Greece's capital Athens, bringing significant foreign investment into the cash-strapped country, the fund said on Dec. 6, reports Reuters.

Click here to read the entire article on Reuters

BMW says 120 vehicles damaged in South Carolina train derailment

About 120 BMW X models were damaged when train cars carrying the vehicles derailed on Dec. 4 en route to the Port of Charleston, SC, for export to overseas markets, says Automotive News.

Click here to read the entire article on Automotive News

Michelle Obama's Gucci dress may have a hidden political message

Over the past eight years, Michelle Obama has solidified her status as a modern-day style icon and possibly the most fashionable First Lady in history. She has consistently been a champion of American fashion and up-and-coming designers like Christian Siriano and Jason Wu. So it came as a surprise to her legion of style fans when FLOTUS opted to wear Gucci at the Kennedy Center Honors ceremony on Sunday, Dec. 4, according to Allure.

Click here to read the entire article on Allure

© 2020 Napean LLC. All rights reserved.

Luxury Daily is published each business day. Thank you for reading us. Your feedback is welcome.