

NEWS BRIEFS

Manolo Blahnik, Louis Vuitton, watchmakers and Tesla – News briefs

December 14, 2016

Photo courtesy of Manolo Blahnik

---

By STAFF REPORTS

Today in luxury marketing:

A brand for all seasons: Manolo Blahnik tweaks delivery schedule

Subscribe to Luxury Daily
Plus: Just released
State of Luxury 2019 Save $246 ▶

Manolo Blahnik is changing its approach to seasonal deliveries, with a model that dovetails with consumers' seasonal needs and ensures they're buying sandals when it's warm rather than snowing and fur boots for the winter, rather than the summer sun, reports Women's Wear Daily.

Click here to read the entire article on Women's Wear Daily

Louis Vuitton London flagship closed by anti-fur protest

Louis Vuitton's Bond Street, London flagship was forced to close for a while on Saturday as anti-fur protestors demonstrated outside with some having gained entry to the store by posing as customers, says Fashion Network.

Click here to read the entire article on Fashion Network

Time isn't on luxury watchmakers' side

If this generation can't afford one, and the next generation doesn't want one, the future looks bleak for Swiss timepieces. Mark Gilbert explains why social and economic changes around the world are keeping horologists in Geneva up at night, per Bloomberg.

Click here to read the entire article on Bloomberg

Tesla settles Norway lawsuit over cars' performance

Electric carmaker Tesla Motors Inc. has reached an out-of-court settlement with 126 Norwegian customers who claimed their cars' performance did not match promises made in the firm's marketing, according to Automotive News.

Click here to read the entire article on Automotive News

---

© 2020 Napean LLC. All rights reserved.

Luxury Daily is published each business day. Thank you for reading us. Your feedback is welcome.