

NEWS BRIEFS

Lane Crawford, Qatar, United Arab Emirates and British Vogue – News briefs

June 15, 2017

Lane Crawford saw a pricing snafu online. Image credit: Lane Crawford

By STAFF REPORTS

Please be aware the clippings below may require a paid subscription to the listed media outlet to read an article in full.

Subscribe to Luxury Daily
Plus: Just released
State of Luxury 2019 Save $246 ▶

Today in luxury:

Lane Crawford online pricing mishap leads to hundreds of complaints

A consumer protection authority in Shanghai is investigating hundreds of complaints made against Lane Crawford by consumers who say they legitimately purchased products on the department store's Chinese Web site, only to have the transactions cancelled, reports Women's Wear Daily.

Click here to read the entire article on Women's Wear Daily

Qatar looks to make a dent in New York luxury real estate

Although Qatar has been cut off by several other Middle Eastern neighbors for supporting and harboring terrorists, its sovereign wealth fund is doing business as usual and has investments and partners in New York and around the globe, according to The New York Post.

Click here to read the entire article on The New York Post

UAE luxury fashion market luring big spenders

Dubai, United Arab Emirates is putting itself on the fashion map when it comes to luxury brands, with shoppers from as far away as Russia choosing it as their destination of choice. And as Kate King reports, the city could cash in with luxury good sales expected to grow in 2017, says Reuters.

Click here to read the entire article on Reuters

Edward Enninful names new British Vogue fashion director

Incoming British Vogue editor in chief Edward Enninful announced June 14 that he has appointed Venetia Scott as fashion director of the publication. Effective from July 10, Scott replaces Lucinda Chambers, who departs the title later this month, per British Vogue.

Click here to read the entire article on British Vogue

© 2020 Napean LLC. All rights reserved.

Luxury Daily is published each business day. Thank you for reading us. Your feedback is welcome.