NEWS BRIEFS

Dior Homme, Este Lauder, The Dorchester, Mulberry, Cartier, Lalique and Emilio Pucci – Live news

June 15, 2017

Cactus de Cartier collection. Image credit: Cartier

By STAFF REPORTS

Luxury Daily's live news from June 14:

Dior Homme captures nighttime revelry on film in fall ads

French fashion label Christian Dior is retracing the aesthetics of previous decades to mark a milestone for its menswear designer.

Click here to read the entire article

Este Lauder ends Este Edit production

Beauty conglomerate Este Lauder Cos. has announced that its color cosmetics and skincare line geared toward millennial consumers will be discontinued.

Click here to read the entire article

The Dorchester opens kitchen to the public for London Food Month

The Dorchester Collection's London hotel is rolling out the red carpet to its kitchen.

Click here to read the entire article

Mulberry's Asia, digital strategy yields results for fiscal 2017

British leather goods house Mulberry saw total revenue increase by 8 percent for fiscal year 2017, as the brand works to continue growth, international development and product investment.

Click here to read the entire article

Cartier crafts cactus-themed cocktails high above Fifth Avenue

French jeweler Cartier is inviting consumers up to the roof of its Fifth Avenue mansion to enjoy summer cocktails.

Click here to read the entire article

Lalique to launch 1927/1928 jewelry line exclusively online
French lifestyle brand Lalique is the latest maker of fine jewelry to offer a new collection as an ecommerce exclusive.

Click here to read the entire article

Emilio Pucci appeals to sneakerheads in city-inspired collection

Italian fashion house Emilio Pucci is translating its colorful aesthetic to sportswear through a limited-edition series of sneakers.

Click here to read the entire article