

NEWS BRIEFS

Brioni, Grenfell Tower, Balenciaga parodies and Este Lauder – News briefs

June 19, 2017

American actor Samuel L. Jackson for Brioni. Image credit: Brioni

By STAFF REPORTS

Please be aware the clippings below may require a paid subscription to the listed media outlet to read an article in full.

Subscribe to Luxury Daily
Plus: Just released
State of Luxury 2019 Save $246 ▶

Today in luxury:

Brioni's choice points to rise of women in men's tailoring

Is sartorial men's wear the final glass ceiling for female designers? asks WWD.

Click here to read the entire article on WWD

Jeremy Corbyn: Put Grenfell Tower homeless in empty luxury flats

Jeremy Corbyn has called for empty luxury properties in Kensington to be requisitioned to house victims of the Grenfell inferno, says Sky News.

Click here to read the entire article on Sky News

Vetememes founder is now launching Boolenciaga and here's an exclusive first look

After the rise of Vetememes the parody alternative of French clothing and footwear brand Vetements founded by fashion designer Demna Gvasalia the master of high-end meme fashion is now shifting towards French luxury fashion house Balenciaga, following recent news on Vetements no longer focusing on oversized clothing, reports High Snobiety.

Click here to read the entire article on High Snobiety

Este Lauder's latest investment is in science-based, Internet-beloved beauty brand Deciem

When Este Lauder announced June 14 that it would be discontinuing its millennial-targeted, Kendall Jenner-fronted beauty brand Este Edit, the company said that it hadn't given up on reaching millennials, just that the creation of a new brand to do so hadn't been necessary, per Fashionista.

Click here to read the entire article on Fashionista

© 2020 Napean LLC. All rights reserved.

Luxury Daily is published each business day. Thank you for reading us. Your feedback is welcome.