

NEWS BRIEFS

Ferragamo, McLaren, Russia and haute couture – News briefs

June 30, 2017

Ferragamo Capua heels for fall/winter 2017. Image credit: Ferragamo

By STAFF REPORTS

Please be aware the clippings below may require a paid subscription to the listed media outlet to read an article in full.

Subscribe to Luxury Daily
Plus: Just released
State of Luxury 2019 Save $246 ▶

Today in luxury:

Salvatore Ferragamo taps Donald Kohler

The Salvatore Ferragamo Group is reorganizing its distribution in the Americas and sharpening its global retail strategy. To this end, it has appointed Donald Kohler the new chief executive officer of the Americas region and chief retail officer of the worldwide group. The latter is a new position, reports WWD.

Click here to read the entire article on WWD

McLaren Automotive sees more growth ahead after record 2016

Luxury sports carmaker McLaren Automotive said on Thursday it expected to post another record performance this year after reporting a 70 percent increase in pre-tax profits in 2016 off the back of an all-time high in sales, according to Reuters.

Click here to read the entire article on Reuters

Tricky politics means huge business for Russia's travel market

Greg Tepper typically sends 1,500 travelers to Russia every year. Since he founded his company Exeter International in 1992, he's been one of the foremost leaders in the United States of luxury travel to Russia. And this has been his best year in a very long time maybe ever, says Bloomberg.

Click here to read the entire article on Bloomberg

How Couture Fashion Week is changing

This coming Sunday, July 3, 550 journalists from 25 countries will gather in Paris alongside some of the world's most devoted and wealthiest high-fashion consumers for the unveiling of the Fall-Winter 2017-2018 Haute Couture collections, per British Vogue.

Click here to read the entire article on British Vogue

© 2020 Napean LLC. All rights reserved.

Luxury Daily is published each business day. Thank you for reading us. Your feedback is welcome.