

NEWS BRIEFS

Shopping malls, Moncler, Coty and Hilton – News briefs

July 27, 2017

Moncler's #BlackInkyStory. Image credit: Moncler

By STAFF REPORTS

Please be aware the clippings below may require a paid subscription to the listed media outlet to read an article in full.

Subscribe to Luxury Daily
Plus: Just released
State of Luxury 2019 Save $246 ▶

Today in luxury:

An ode to shopping malls

Farewell, pleasure palaces of days past. A filmmaker's series chronicles a way of life as it reaches its end, says The New York Times.

Click here to read the entire article on The New York Times

Moncler profits up 25pc in first half

Moncler SpA, reporting first half results on July 26, marked "the 14th consecutive quarter of double-digit growth" for the company since it was listed in 2013, the group's chairman and chief executive officer Remo Ruffini said to WWD.

Click here to read the entire article on WWD

Luxury firms' online battle boosted by EU court adviser's Coty stance

A decade-long battle by luxury brands to defend their image neared an end on July 26 when an adviser to Europe's top court said Coty can block a German retailer from selling its beauty products via online marketplaces, reports Reuters.

Click here to read the entire article on Reuters

Hilton CEO says alliance with HNA isn't a cause for concern

Hilton Worldwide Holdings Inc. chief executive officer Christopher Nassetta said the hotel operator continues to work with China's HNA Group Co., its largest shareholder, as planned and that he isn't concerned about a potential change in ownership resulting from China's crackdown on financial risk-taking, according to Bloomberg.

Click here to read the entire article on Bloomberg

© 2020 Napean LLC. All rights reserved.

Luxury Daily is published each business day. Thank you for reading us. Your feedback is welcome.