

NEWS BRIEFS

Marc Jacobs, Lanvin, Neiman Marcus and Matchesfashion.com – News briefs

July 28, 2017

Neiman Marcus is said to be restructuring. Image credit: Neiman Marcus

By STAFF REPORTS

Please be aware the clippings below may require a paid subscription to the listed media outlet to read an article in full.

Subscribe to Luxury Daily
Plus: Just released
State of Luxury 2019 Save $246 ▶

Today in luxury:

Will Marc Jacobs step back from his namesake brand?

An incoming chief executive Eric Marechalle takes control of the troubled LVMH-owned brand, it's unclear how involved Mr. Jacobs will be in the company's turnaround strategy, reports Business of Fashion.

Click here to read the entire article on Business of Fashion

Bridget Foley's Diary: What's next for Lanvin?

Can Lanvin make a comeback? That is front-and-center among the many questions swirling around what should prove a fascinating spring 2018 season, says WWD.

Click here to read the entire article on WWD

Neiman Marcus to cut 225 jobs, assess Last Call's future

Neiman Marcus said July 26 that a reorganization of its business to reflect changing customer shopping habits will include a reduction of its workforce. The Dallas-based retailer also said it's assessing its Last Call outlet division, according to The Dallas Morning News.

Click here to read the entire article on The Dallas Morning News

Matchesfashion said to be exploring a sale

The owners of luxury retailer Matchesfashion.com are exploring a potential sale of the business, it has been reported, per Drapers.

Click here to read the entire article on Drapers

© 2020 Napean LLC. All rights reserved.

Luxury Daily is published each business day. Thank you for reading us. Your feedback is welcome.