

NEWS BRIEFS

Positano, Anbang, magazines and the Hamptons – News briefs

August 14, 2017

Image from Harrods' Endless Summer effort

By STAFF REPORTS

Please be aware the clippings below may require a paid subscription to the listed media outlet to read an article in full.

Subscribe to Luxury Daily
Plus: Just released
State of Luxury 2019 Save $246 ▶

Today in luxury:

Positano chic: Why fashion fell for the Amalfi coast

"Positano bites deep...it is a dream place that isn't quite real when you are there, and becomes beckoningly real after you have gone." So wrote John Steinbeck, recounting a vacation to the Amalfi Coast in Harper's Bazaar in 1953, says the Financial Times.

Click here to read the entire article on the Financial Times

Who owns Anbang of China? A US labor union wants to know

To the growing list of entities questioning the ownership of Anbang Insurance Group, the Chinese financial conglomerate, add one more: an American hotel union, per The New York Times.

Click here to read the entire article on The New York Times

British publications post uneven performance

It's the never-ending story: The print magazine business is about managing decline with a few exceptions, reports Women's Wear Daily.

Click here to read the entire article on Women's Wear Daily

Rich Hamptons buyers don't want mega-mansions

After what felt like an endless stagnant market, mansion sales in the Hamptons have finally shown signs of life. "We're coming out of a really down market," said Beate Moore, a broker for Sotheby's International Realty. "It was very frustrating. But the market has picked up, and we've seen a surge of huge sales," according to Bloomberg.

Click here to read the entire article on Bloomberg

© 2020 Napean LLC. All rights reserved.

Luxury Daily is published each business day. Thank you for reading us. Your feedback is welcome.