

NEWS BRIEFS

Gucci, Alexander McQueen, Bang & Olufsen and store growth – News briefs

October 5, 2017

Alexander McQueen spring/summer 2018. Image credit: Alexander McQueen, photo by Chloe Le Drezen

By STAFF REPORTS

Please be aware the clippings below may require a paid subscription to the listed media outlet to read an article in full.

Subscribe to Luxury Daily
Plus: Just released
State of Luxury 2019 Save $246 ▶

Today in luxury:

Ex-Gucci employee launches \$10M sexual harassment suit

A former Gucci retail employee is suing the luxury house for $10 million, claiming a store manager's sexual harassment escalated to the point of him exposing himself, but went essentially ignored by higher-ups, reports Women's Wear Daily

Click here to read the entire article on WWD

The anatomy of an Alexander McQueen ball gown

The spring/summer 2018 Alexander McQueen show began with creative director Sarah Burton and the McQueen design team's visit to Great Dixter, in east Sussex, per British Vogue.

Click here to read the entire article on British Vogue

B&O to pump up the volume on cheaper speakers to drive growth

Bang & Olufsen is targeting its more affordable B&O Play products and brand partnerships to drive growth as the Danish company moves away from its mainstay high-end stereo and TVs, says Reuters.

Click here to read the entire article on Reuters

What luxury's negative store growth says about the future of the industry

For the first time ever, net luxury store growth over the last 12 months was negative with more closures than openings, according to Business of Fashion.

Click here to read the entire article on Business of Fashion

© 2020 Napean LLC. All rights reserved.

Luxury Daily is published each business day. Thank you for reading us. Your feedback is welcome.