

NEWS BRIEFS

Day's wrap: Gucci, Tatler, Kering, HBC, Mot Hennessy and Langham

December 4, 2017

The Gucci Garden print

---

By STAFF REPORTS

Luxury Daily's live news from Dec. 4:

Gucci being investigated for tax evasion

Subscribe to Luxury Daily
Plus: Just released
State of Luxury 2019 Save $246 ▶

Kering's Gucci is the latest Italian luxury brand to be suspected of tax evasion. La Stampa reported that police searched the company's offices in Milan and Florence for evidence over three days.

Click here to read the entire article

HBC reaches agreement with Land & Buildings

Saks owner Hudson's Bay Company has reached a deal with its activist investor Land & Buildings, allowing its planned equity investment from Rhne Capital to go through.

Click here to read the entire article

Kering hires tech veteran to lead digital transformation

French fashion group Kering has named Grgory Boutt its new chief client and digital officer.

Click here to read the entire article

Langham rebrands New York property

Hong Kong-based Langham Hospitality Group is giving its New York hotel a new name.

Click here to read the entire article

Kate Reardon resigns from Tatler for "new venture"

Tatler's editor Kate Reardon is stepping down from the helm of the Cond Nast Britain title after seven years.

Click here to read the entire article

Mot Hennessy teaches Alexa to be a Champagne connoisseur

Mot Hennessy USA has developed a "Bottles and Bubbles" skill for Amazon's virtual assistant Alexa to educate consumers about Champagne at home.

Click here to read the entire article

---

© 2020 Napean LLC. All rights reserved.

Luxury Daily is published each business day. Thank you for reading us. Your feedback is welcome.