

NEWS BRIEFS

Gucci, hotels, Aston Martin and luxury homes – News briefs

December 12, 2017

Gucci has responded to a former employee's claims of harassment. Image credit: Gucci

---

By STAFF REPORTS

Today in luxury:

Gucci denies ex-employee's allegations of manager sexual harassment

Subscribe to Luxury Daily
Plus: Just released
State of Luxury 2019 Save $246 ▶

Gucci isn't having it with a former employee suing for $10 million over claims that she was regularly sexually harassed by a store manager, and the company did nothing about it, reports Women's Wear Daily.

Click here to read the entire article on Women's Wear Daily

Seven ways hotels will change in 2018

In response to the many geo-political, sociological and technological changes that took place in 2017, five-star hotels are making changessome small, some large, according to Bloomberg.

Click here to read the entire article on Bloomberg

Italian fund denies seeking to raise stake in Aston Martin

Italy's Investindustrial is not in talks to increase its stake in Aston Martin and no decision has been taken on a possible stock market listing for the British carmaker, the private equity group said, denying an earlier newspaper report, per Reuters.

Click here to read the entire article on Reuters

Luxury homebuyers want over-the-top amenities for enjoyment and investment

From Miami to Beverly Hills, today's luxury and ultra-luxury buyers want over-the-top amenities to enjoy now and help market the property when it's time to sell, says Forbes.

Click here to read the entire article on Forbes

---

© 2020 Napean LLC. All rights reserved.

Luxury Daily is published each business day. Thank you for reading us. Your feedback is welcome.