

NEWS BRIEFS

Yoox, Aspinal of London, Michael Kors and Pietro Beccari – News briefs

December 18, 2017

Yoox was founded by Italian entrepreneur Federico Marchetti in 1999. Image credit: Yoox

By STAFF REPORTS

Please be aware the clippings below may require a paid subscription to the listed media outlet to read an article in full.

Subscribe to Luxury Daily
Plus: Just released
State of Luxury 2019 Save $246 ▶

Today in luxury:

Yoox and ICE partner on online project

The Italian government is helping to uncover "Italian Hidden Gems," reports WWD.

Click here to read the entire article on WWD

Harrods sells out of luxury \$1.2K Aspinal of London bags at a bargain \$10 after a "Web site pricing blunder"

Scores of people have been snapping up luxury designer handbags from Harrods for just a tiny fraction of the price after an apparent Web site blunder, according to the Evening Standard.

Click here to read the entire article on the Evening Standard

Michael Kors will go fur-free in 2018

Michael Kors just gave PETA and animal lovers all over the world the best holiday gift ever. On Dec. 15, the American luxury brand announced that the entire company plans to be fur-free by the end of December 2018, says Glamour.

Click here to read the entire article on Glamour

Farewell Fendi, bonjour Dior

In an exclusive interview with BoF, LVMH's Pietro Beccari bids goodbye to the Roman fur and leather brand and looks ahead to a new year, a new role and a new luxury world.

Click here to read the entire article on Business of Fashion

© 2020 Napean LLC. All rights reserved.

Luxury Daily is published each business day. Thank you for reading us. Your feedback is welcome.