

NEWS BRIEFS

Tiffany, Lanvin, vacation rentals and fur in China – News briefs

December 22, 2017

Tiffany's Save the Wild collection aimed to raise $1 million by 2019, but hit its target goal only a year. Image credit: Tiffany

By STAFF REPORTS

Please be aware the clippings below may require a paid subscription to the listed media outlet to read an article in full.

Subscribe to Luxury Daily
Plus: Just released
State of Luxury 2019 Save $246 ▶

Today in luxury:

Tiffany & Co. Save the Wild collection exceeds expectations

Tiffany & Co. has exceeded expectation of its Save the Wild charitable collection, reports WWD.

Click here to read the entire article on WWD

Lanvin seeks ways other than capital raise to revive business

The planned capital increase at France's oldest fashion house Lanvin has not taken place, and the company is looking for other ways to get through its financial troubles to revive the business, its managing director, Nicolas Druz, told Reuters.

Click here to read the entire article on Reuters

Luxury travel's next phase could be in vacation rental consolidation

Over the last year Airbnb has demonstrated its willingness to spend in order to get a bigger slice of the vacation rental market, per Skift.

Click here to read the entire article on Skift

As Michael Kors and Gucci swear off fur, China's shoppers are still eager for it

If you judged solely by the major fashion players ditching fur, you might think the fur industry was collapsing, according to Quartz.

Click here to read the entire article on Quartz

© 2020 Napean LLC. All rights reserved.

Luxury Daily is published each business day. Thank you for reading us. Your feedback is welcome.