

NEWS BRIEFS

Stella McCartney, Champagne, travel and real estate – News briefs

December 27, 2017

Stella McCartney is now selling on Alibaba's Luxury Pavilion. Image credit: Stella McCartney

By STAFF REPORTS

Please be aware the clippings below may require a paid subscription to the listed media outlet to read an article in full.

Subscribe to Luxury Daily
Plus: Just released
State of Luxury 2019 Save $246 ▶

Today in luxury:

Stella McCartney becomes first Kering-owned brand to sell on Alibaba's Luxury Pavilion

Stella McCartney has launched a flash sale store on Luxury Pavilion, the invite-only luxury portal of Chinese ecommerce giant Alibaba, says Footwear News.

Click here to read the entire article on Footwear News

Britain's Champagne import crown slips as Brexit hits

Britain is set to lose its ranking as the world's biggest importer of champagne, a French industry lobby said, citing the impact of a weaker pound since the U.K. voted to leave the European Union, reports Reuters.

Click here to read the entire article on Reuters

Here are the 6 key ways luxury travel changed in 2017

A lot can happen in a year but 2017 was particularly eventful when it came to how we travel the world. The threats that loomed largest in 2016, Zika and the migrant crisis, faded into the rear-view mirror as talk of a United States travel ban and Brexit suddenly dominated global headlines. And that was just the beginning, according to Bloomberg.

Click here to read the entire article on Bloomberg

Investors pile into suburban rental housing

Now that the urban luxury-apartment boom is winding down, some big investors are fanning out to the suburbs, reports the Wall Street Journal.

Click here to read the entire article on the Wall Street Journal

© 2020 Napean LLC. All rights reserved.

Luxury Daily is published each business day. Thank you for reading us. Your feedback is welcome.