

NEWS BRIEFS

Neiman Marcus, Stuart Weitzman, NYFW and Lanvin – News briefs

February 12, 2018

Stuart Weitzman spring 2018 brings together Gigi Hadid and Kate Moss for the first time. Image credit: Stuart Weitzman, photo by Mario Testino

By STAFF REPORTS

Please be aware the clippings below may require a paid subscription to the listed media outlet to read an article in full.

Subscribe to Luxury Daily
Plus: Just released
State of Luxury 2019 Save $246 ▶

Today in luxury:

Karen Katz: The exit interview

As Karen Katz sees it, the time is right for her to retire, with the Neiman Marcus Group on "a much better trajectory" and someone with fresh perspectives taking the reins, per Women's Wear Daily.

Click here to read the entire article on Women's Wear Daily

Footwear brand Stuart Weitzman shows at first-ever NYFW

Stuart Weitzman makes its New York Fashion Week debut in a presentation, reports Reuters.

Click here to read the entire article on Reuters

CFDA ponders radical reinvention of New York Fashion Week

Proenza Schouler and Rodarte could be heading back to New York, joining Alexander Wang with runway shows in December and June, says Business of Fashion.

Click here to read the entire article on Business of Fashion

Lanvin in talks with buyers as Alber Elbaz wins \$12M plus settlement

China's Fosun International and Qatar's Mayhoola, which owns Valentino and Balmain, are competing to inject capital into Lanvin and buy control as France's oldest fashion house looks set to run out of cash as early as March, sources with first-hand knowledge of the matter have said, according to Fashion Network.

Click here to read the entire article on Fashion Network

© 2020 Napean LLC. All rights reserved.

Luxury Daily is published each business day. Thank you for reading us. Your feedback is welcome.