

NEWS BRIEFS

Modest fashion, AccorHotels, Daimler and kitchens – News briefs

February 22, 2018

Image courtesy of The Modist; model wears a Mary Katrantzou maxi

By STAFF REPORTS

Today in luxury:

What luxury modest clothing brands forget

Subscribe to Luxury Daily
Plus: Just released
State of Luxury 2019 Save $246 ▶

Once a niche subculture battling the increasingly exposed mainstream, modest fashion has officially gone viral. New York Times fashion critic Vanessa Friedman declared last spring that long sleeves and even-longer skirts are "[t]he defining sartorial style of the 2010s," according to Racked.

Click here to read the entire article on Racked

Confident AccorHotels books record annual profit

AccorHotels, Europe's largest hotel company, reported record earnings for 2017 and said on Feb. 21 plans to sell a stake in its property business were in their final stages, reports Reuters.

Click here to read the entire article on Reuters

Daimler throws shade at Tesla as truck rivalry heats up

Daimler AG cast doubt on Tesla Inc.'s plan to deliver electric heavy trucks next year, saying its more modest goal to start selling battery-powered big rigs by 2021 is more realistic, says Bloomberg.

Click here to read the entire article on Bloomberg

Are 6 ovens enough?

Too many cooks spoil the broth, but in a kitchen with six ovens can you have too many cooks? asks the Wall Street Journal.

Click here to read the entire article on the Wall Street Journal

© 2020 Napean LLC. All rights reserved.

Luxury Daily is published each business day. Thank you for reading us. Your feedback is welcome.