

NEWS BRIEFS

John Galliano, China and consumer woes – News briefs

June 28, 2011

---

By STAFF REPORTS

Today in luxury marketing:

LVMH will not rehire John Galliano

Bill Gaytten has been named creative director of John Galliano, following the departure of its namesake, who awaits the verdict of his public-defamation trial, according to The Cut.

Please click here to read the entire story on The Cut

Sign up now

Luxury Daily

Made in America back in vogue

Skyrocketing costs in Asia and always-increasing product lead times have spurred American companies to take another look at making products in the States, according to

Womens Wear Daily.

Please click here to read the entire story on WWD

China shows off latest high-speed train

With its fully reclining airline-style business class seats, a strict no-smoking policy and designed top speed of 220 miles per hour, the new Beijing-Shanghai express embodies China's race to the future, according to Reuters.

Please click here to read the entire story on Reuters

Greek crisis threatens more consumer woes

Global stock markets are bracing themselves for the next act in the ongoing Greek financial drama, according to Womens Wear Daily.

Please click here to read the entire story on WWD

---

© Napean LLC. All rights reserved.

Luxury Daily is published each business day. Thank you for reading us. Your feedback is welcome.