

NEWS BRIEFS

Gucci, African luxury, Trump and Vogue Italia – News briefs

May 7, 2018

Gucci is looking to grow. Image credit: Gucci

By STAFF REPORTS

Please be aware the clippings below may require a paid subscription to the listed media outlet to read an article in full.

Subscribe to Luxury Daily
Plus: just released
State of Luxury 2018 Save $246 ▶

Today in luxury:

Gucci aims to step into the shoes of luxury leader Louis Vuitton

François-Henri Pinault, billionaire chairman of French luxury group Kering, reignited rivalry with his compatriot Bernard Arnault earlier this year when he declared that his group's flagship label Gucci could eclipse Louis Vuitton, according to the Financial Times.

Click here to read the entire article on the Financial Times

Kenya's Coco Chanel? African luxury is getting into Anthropologie, Harrods and Vogue

The McKinsey Global Institute once famously described the African economies as "lions on the move." But today it's the continent's "Lionesses" who are moving luxury markets around the world, says Forbes.

Click here to read the entire article on Forbes

Trump name can be removed from Manhattan condo building, judge rules

A New York State Supreme Court judge ruled May 3 that the residents of a Manhattan condominium can legally remove the Trump name from the building's facade, reports the Wall Street Journal.

Click here to read the entire article on the Wall Street Journal

Gigi Hadid apologizes for Vogue Italia cover

"It is necessary to confront vague ideas with clear images," reads one of French director Jean-Luc Godard's most famous lines, featured in his "La Chinoise" movie, per Women's Wear Daily.

Click here to read the entire article on Women's Wear Daily

---

© Napean LLC. All rights reserved.

Luxury Daily is published each business day. Thank you for reading us. Your feedback is welcome.