

NEWS BRIEFS

Yves Saint Laurent, Aston Martin, Marriott and doomsday luxury – News briefs

May 11, 2018

Yves Saint Laurent's 1951 set design for Henri Sauguet's ballet "Les Forains." Image credit: Yves Saint Laurent.

By STAFF REPORTS

Please be aware the clippings below may require a paid subscription to the listed media outlet to read an article in full.

Subscribe to Luxury Daily
Plus: Just released
State of Luxury 2019 Save $246 ▶

Today in luxury:

Paris museum to show Yves Saint Laurent's youth sketches

The Yves Saint Laurent Museum in Paris is marking the 10th anniversary of the couturier's death with a show of drawings he made as a teenager before joining the house of Christian Dior in 1955, says Women's Wear Daily.

Click here to read the entire story on Women's Wear Daily

Aston Martin targets Ferrari with ultra-luxury Lagonda electric SUV

Aston Martin is reviving the Lagonda brand with a battery-powered sport utility vehicle to compete in a growing pool of electrified ultra-luxury cars, according to Forbes.

Click here to read the entire story on Forbes

Marriott wants to beat home-sharing upstarts at their own game

Home-sharing Web sites like Airbnb Inc. and HomeAway Inc. are often seen as stealing customers from traditional lodging businesses. Now the world's largest hotel company thinks it can disrupt the disruptors, reports Bloomberg.

Click here to read the entire article on Bloomberg

The upscale way to prepare for doomsday from \$79.5K Teslas to \$275 jeans

Don't call Nick Robbins a Doomsday prepper. Sure, Mr. Robbins, 50, a technology lawyer and general counsel for the Health Coach Institute, produces his own drinking water at his Phoenix home a move often associated with people who hoard canned goods and watch YouTube tutorials on how to field-dress a wound. But, for the most part, it was health considerations rather than apocalyptic fears that inspired him and his wife to go off the water grid, per the Wall Street Journal.

Click here to read the entire article on the Wall Street Journal

---

© 2020 Napean LLC. All rights reserved.

Luxury Daily is published each business day. Thank you for reading us. Your feedback is welcome.