

NEWS BRIEFS

Marchesa, Rockefeller, Germany and Burberry – News briefs

May 14, 2018

Burberry's Spring 19; Image credit: Burberry.

By STAFF REPORTS

Please be aware the clippings below may require a paid subscription to the listed media outlet to read an article in full.

Subscribe to Luxury Daily
Plus: Just released
State of Luxury 2019 Save $246 ▶

Today in luxury:

The return of Marchesa

The brand co-designed by Georgina Chapman, Harvey Weinstein's estranged wife, seemed damned. Here's the comeback, with Anna Wintour and Scarlett Johansson as champions. Will it work? asks The New York Times.

Click here to read the entire story on Ny Times

The biggest surprises from the \$828 Million Rockefeller sale

At David Rockefeller's three-day-long, $828 million estate sale at Christie's in New York, artworks by such big names as Picasso, Matisse and Gauguin sold for hundreds of millions of dollars. There was also a profusion of statuary, antiques, silverware and what can only be called very high-end knickknacks, says Bloomberg.

Click here to read the entire story on Bloomberg

Germany's luxury boom: why it might be too late to cash in

Home prices in German cities are soaring, recent reports show, with several logging double-digit price hikes because of increased demand and diminished supply. Investors have been getting in on deals in the country for some time, but now, with prices so high, investment potential could be limited, experts said, according to Mansion Global.

Click here to read the entire story on Mansion Global

First look at Burberry pre-spring 2019 collection

Although Riccardo Tisci won't unveil his first collection for Burberry until Sept. 17 during London Fashion Week, he's offered a glimpse of what's to come, curating a series of looks from the Burberry spring 2019 pre-collection, per Women's Wear Daily.

Click here to read the entire story on Women's Wear Daily

© 2020 Napean LLC. All rights reserved.

Luxury Daily is published each business day. Thank you for reading us. Your feedback is welcome.