

NEWS BRIEFS

Bernard Arnault, Dolce & Gabbana, Jaguar Land Rover and real estate – News briefs

May 15, 2018

Dolce & Gabbana SS 2018 menswear fashion show in Milan; Image credit: Dolce & Gabbana.

By STAFF REPORTS

Please be aware the clippings below may require a paid subscription to the listed media outlet to read an article in full.

Subscribe to Luxury Daily
Plus: just released
State of Luxury 2018 Save $246 ▶

Today in luxury:

Bernard Arnault: How France's richest man stays in fashion

Bernard Arnault is the world's fourth richest person, with wealth estimated at more than $80 billion. He's the CEO of French luxury group and family business LVMH, maintaining a fine balance between creativity and commerce, per CNBC.

Click here to read the entire article on CNBC

How Dolce & Gabbana defines a new idea in millennial luxury

Shortly after viewing the Dolce & Gabbana spring/summer 2018 menswear fashion show in Milan, a new style epiphany came to mind, according to Forbes.

Click here to read the entire article on Forbes

Jaguar Land Rover sticks to Brazil on promise of luxury rebound

Jaguar Land Rover can churn out 24,000 cars a year in Brazil. Last year, fewer than 5,000 rolled out of its Rio de Janeiro factory, says Bloomberg.

Click here to read the entire article on Bloomberg

Manhattan's luxury homes saw an 11pc average price discount last week

Price negotiability was a big factor in getting deals done in Manhattan's luxury real estate market last week, according to Monday's Olshan report. There were 24 contracts signed on properties priced at $4 million and above—the weekly report's benchmark for luxury—in the week ending Sunday, and prices were discounted from their original ask by an average of 11 percent, reports Mansion Global.

Click here to read the entire story on Mansion Global

© Napean LLC. All rights reserved.

Luxury Daily is published each business day. Thank you for reading us. Your feedback is welcome.