The hospitality brand is now allowing its guests at Four Seasons Resort Maldives at Landaa Giraavaru a deep sea dive in a three-person submarine. DeepFlight Adventures is an excursion with the resort that allows two passengers to explore underwater in the UNESCO Biosphere Reserve in the Maldives.

Flying under water

The environmentally friendly Super Falcon 3S allows 360-degree views underwater and does not disturb the marine life surrounding it.

Four Seasons' DeepFlight adventures last for a total of one hour from boarding to disembarkation.

Participants must be more than seven years of age, taller than 3.9 feet and weigh less than 365 pounds. The maximum height per person is 6.4 feet.

For two passengers to take part, the total cost is $1500 per flight.

"Landaa Giraavaru is the first resort in the world to launch DeepFlight Adventures: piloted submarine excursions for up to two passengers in the DeepFlight Super Falcon 3S, enabling once-in-a-lifetime sub-aquatic explorations of the Maldives' only UNESCO Biosphere Reserve," said Four Seasons. "Individual viewing domes provide a 360-degree view of the Baa Atoll's incredible underwater world.

"Skim over coral formations, fly through shoals of brightly colored fish, encounter creatures like turtles, sharks, dolphins and rays and explore the Maldivian waters down to a depth of 37 meters/120 feet all without getting wet."

Four Seasons Hotels and Resorts also brought opulence to a means of travel not typically known as luxurious, as hospitality brands compete to create the most unique experiences.

One-of-a-kind activities are drawing affluent travelers to hospitality brands, and Four Seasons is hoping to create an unforgettable experience through a road trip. Encouraging bookings at three of its locations in Italy and the French Riviera, Four Seasons is offering a road trip experience without losing out on high-end customer service (see more).
