

NEWS BRIEFS

GDPR, Belstaff, Stuart Weitzman and China tourism – News briefs

May 30, 2018

The European Union's May 25, 2018 General Data Protection Regulation will empower consumers to seek profiling data that retailers hold on them, thus adding layers of legal paperwork and accompanying costs to comply. Image credit: Fung Global Retail & Technology

By STAFF REPORTS

Please be aware the clippings below may require a paid subscription to the listed media outlet to read an article in full.

Subscribe to Luxury Daily
Plus: Just released
State of Luxury 2019 Save $246 ▶

Today in luxury:

GDPR will hinder luxury's fight against fakes, say executives

New EU data privacy rules will make it harder for luxury brands to tackle the multibillion-dollar counterfeit goods business, according to legal experts and industry executives, according to Financial Times.

Click here to read the entire article at Financial Times

Sean Lehnhardt-Moore replaces Delphine Ninous at Belstaff

Delphine Ninous is leaving her post as Belstaff's creative director and will be replaced by Sean Lehnhardt-Moore, reports WWD.

Click here to read the entire article at WWD

Stuart Weitzman owner sued for harassment by footwear executive

The owner of fashion brand Stuart Weitzman was sued by a footwear executive who alleged he was sexually harassed by the company's recently-departed creative director, Giovanni Morelli, writes Bloomberg Pursuits.

Click here to read the entire article at Bloomberg Pursuits

China aims to attract more luxury travelers to Hainan

If you haven't been paying attention to what's happening in China's Hainan Province lately, you may be overlooking one of the world's top destinations for new luxury tourism development, per Skift.

Click here to read the entire article at Skift

© 2020 Napean LLC. All rights reserved.

Luxury Daily is published each business day. Thank you for reading us. Your feedback is welcome.