

NEWS BRIEFS

Bottega Veneta, Royal Caribbean, kid-friendly kitchens and Leica – News briefs

June 15, 2018

Bottega Veneta's cruise 2018 collection. Image credit: Bottega Veneta

By STAFF REPORTS

Please be aware the clippings below may require a paid subscription to the listed media outlet to read an article in full.

Subscribe to Luxury Daily
Plus: Just released
State of Luxury 2019 Save $246 ▶

Today in luxury:

Next for Bottega? Philo, Green seen as contenders

Tomas Maier is leaving Bottega Veneta, a brand that he has helped shape and elevate for 17 years, and market sources point to Craig Green and Phoebe Philo among the contenders to succeed him, reports Women's Wear Daily.

Click here to read the entire article at Women's Wear Daily

Royal Caribbean to take majority stake in luxury line Silversea Cruises

Mass-market cruise giant Royal Caribbean and luxury line Silversea Cruises soon will be on the same team, according to USA Today.

Click here to read the entire article at USA Today

The rise of the child-friendly luxury kitchen

When Chiara and Tom Clark decided to gut-reno-vate the kitchen of their Gulf Stream, Fla., home, their 9-year-old daughter, Finley, had one request: abundant counter space for the wacky pizza competitions she hosts with her friends, says the Wall Street Journal.

Click here to read the entire article on the Wall Street Journal

Leica puts fancy watches in focus – for \$12K and up

Leica, famous for sturdy analog cameras that are distinctly anachronistic in today's digital age, is trying its hand at an equally retro product: high-end mechanical watches, per Bloomberg Pursuits.

Click here to read the entire article at Bloomberg Pursuits

© 2020 Napean LLC. All rights reserved.

Luxury Daily is published each business day. Thank you for reading us. Your feedback is welcome.