

NEWS BRIEFS

Valentino, Vogue, McLaren, Olivela, Georg Jensen and real estate – Live news

July 16, 2018

Olivela has opened up shop in Nantucket. Image courtesy of Olivela

By STAFF REPORTS

Luxury Daily's live news from July 13:

George Jensen exhibit documents Scandinavian design's rise

Subscribe to Luxury Daily
Plus: Just released
State of Luxury 2019 Save $246 ▶

Danish design house Georg Jensen's impact on modern living is being explored through an exhibit at the Art Institute of Chicago.

Click here to read the entire article

McLaren aims to be 100pc hybrid by 2025

British automaker McLaren is planning to roll out 18 new models and derivatives in the next seven years.

Click here to read the entire article

Olivela makes offline debut in philanthropic pop-up

Online retailer Olivela is bringing its shop-for-a-cause concept to a physical store for the first time.

Click here to read the entire article

Vogue leans into sneaker craze with Jordan collaboration

Cond Nast's Vogue magazine is joining fashion and sporty footwear through a partnership with sneaker brand Jordan.

Click here to read the entire article

Valentino pops up at Printemps

Italian fashion label Valentino is turning department store Printemps' atrium into a palazzo, bringing a touch of its home country to Paris.

Click here to read the entire article

Luxury housing in high demand in the US: report

Sales of million-dollar homes are up 25 percent this year, according to realtor.com's Luxury Home Index, but not all markets are experiencing price growth.

Click here to read the entire article

© 2020 Napean LLC. All rights reserved.

Luxury Daily is published each business day. Thank you for reading us. Your feedback is welcome.