

NEWS BRIEFS

Pringle, Cond Nast, Ferrari and real estate – News briefs

September 18, 2018

Photo from the Pringle Bulletin. Image credit: Pringle

By STAFF REPORTS

Please be aware the clippings below may require a paid subscription to the listed media outlet to read an article in full.

Subscribe to Luxury Daily
Plus: Just released
State of Luxury 2019 Save $246 ▶

Today in luxury:

Pringle celebrates spring/summer 2019 by reviving its in-house magazine, The Bulletin

On the opening day of London Fashion Week, Pringle of Scotland's London HQ, set off a leafy square in Westminster, is a hive of activity. As the team prepares for the brand's spring/summer 2019 presentation and finishing touches are applied to their latest collection of summer knits, an unassuming pile of pamphlets on a nearby table seems to be attracting the most inquisitive stares, per British Vogue.

Click here to read the entire article on British Vogue

Inside the revolution at Cond Nast International

This summer, when Cond Nast announced it was merging the United States and international versions of its magazine Cond Nast Traveler onto a new single platform, and that it would be overseen not from its birthplace in New York, but from London, fashion and media heads were turned on both sides of the Atlantic, says The New York Times.

Click here to read the entire article on The New York Times

Ferrari investors want assurance on targets and SUV plans

Ferrari's new boss has his work cut out on Sept. 18 to convince investors that the supercar maker can hit mid-term targets he described last month as "aspirational," reports Reuters.

Click here to read the entire article on Reuters

China's home prices rose at fastest pace in almost 2 years

China's home prices rose at the fastest pace in almost two years in August, adding to the likelihood of more government tightening in the housing market, according to Bloomberg.

Click here to read the entire article on Bloomberg

---

© 2020 Napean LLC. All rights reserved.

Luxury Daily is published each business day. Thank you for reading us. Your feedback is welcome.