

APPAREL AND ACCESSORIES

Louis Vuitton to showcase cruise collection in New York come May

November 19, 2018

Louis Vuitton's cruise collection designed by Nicolas Ghesquiere

By STAFF REPORTS

French fashion house Louis Vuitton's artistic director took to Instagram to announce the brand will be showcasing its cruise collection in New York.

Subscribe to Luxury Daily
Plus: Just released
State of Luxury 2019 Save $246 ▶

In the same week the Met Gala will bring hundreds of fashion experts to New York, Louis Vuitton will stage a show for the collection on May 8, 2019. The collection will have previously toured various cities throughout the world, including Rio de Janeiro.

Cruise collection

The upcoming show is likely to focus on architectural parallels, as artist director of women's wear Nicolas Ghesquiere shared a video with this theme on Instagram.

All the information that was released about the future runway show is learned from Mr. Ghesquiere video caption that reads, "My next cruise show @louisvuitton will be in New York on May 8th 2019."

View this post on Instagram

Archlight @louisvuitton #lvcrui

A post shared by (@nicolasghesquiere) on Nov 7, 2018 at 9:10am PST

Experts are predicting that the collection will be showcased in an important architectural building, based on the brand's past history.

Louis Vuitton has been frequenting headlines lately with its latest creative director, and new drop model.

After building a frenzied hype to its launch, the French fashion house finally dropped its first collection with Virgil Abloh at the helm last month.

For the first time, the new designer's looks are available in a London pop-up shop that is based on Mr. Abloh's specific style. With a Wizard of Oz theme, Louis Vuitton puts a modern twist on the classic story (see story).

© 2020 Napean LLC. All rights reserved.

Luxury Daily is published each business day. Thank you for reading us. Your feedback is welcome.