

NEWS BRIEFS

Holiday windows, luxury retail, Gucci, Tesla and Aston Martin – News briefs

November 28, 2018

Harrods' holiday windows. Image credit: Harrods

By STAFF REPORTS

Tis the season for wondrous holiday yarns

Fantastical journeys, classic children's stories and newfangled tales feature in the holiday windows of retailers from Manhattan to Macau, says WWD.

Subscribe to Luxury Daily
Plus: Just released
State of Luxury 2019 Save $246 ▶

Click here to read the entire story on Women's Wear Daily

Musk says Tesla faced threat of death in past year

Michele Norsa, industrial partner at Fondo Strategico Italiano, examines the impact of Black Friday and Cyber Monday discounts and the strength of luxury retail. He speaks with Bloomberg's Francine Lacqua on "Bloomberg Surveillance," says Bloomberg.

Click here to read the entire story on Bloomberg

Source: Gucci tax evasion trial likely

Milan prosecutors allege that Gucci owes the Italian tax authorities around 1 billion euros for revenues booked in the years between 2010 and 2016, says Business of Fashion.

Click here to read the entire story on Business of Fashion

Aston Martin sees recent non-automotive concepts as brand extensions

In the past year, Aston Martin has unveiled two unique concepts that go beyond hand-built, ultraluxury cars: a small personal aircraft and a small personal submersible, says Automotive News.

Click here to read the entire story on Automotive News

Luxury Daily is published each business day. Thank you for reading us. Your feedback is welcome.