

NEWS BRIEFS

Marriott, China tensions, Tesla and Gucci – News briefs

December 7, 2018

Marriott hosts luxury properties. Image credit: Marriott

By STAFF REPORTS

Marriott wants to build loyalty with luxury travelers by providing transformative experiences

If research commissioned by Marriott International and some of its partners is correct, you probably approach travel like Marcel Proust who said, "My destination is no longer a place, rather a new way of seeing," says Bloomberg.

Subscribe to Luxury Daily
Plus: Just released
State of Luxury 2019 Save $246 ▶

Click here to read the entire story on Forbes

Stocks rebound after tumbling amid worries over U.S.-China tensions

Just days after President Trump announced a "BIG leap forward" in relations between the U.S. and China, tensions between the two economic heavyweights are escalating once more. This time, the focus of the friction is on Meng Wanzhou, scion of a Chinese telecommunications giant, says NPR.

Click here to read the entire story on NPR

Tesla plans to use stock-cash mix to pay off March debt

Tesla Inc. has notified holders of bonds due in March that if they elect to convert the debt, they'll be paid with a 50-50 mix of cash and stock, according to a copy of the settlement notice seen by Bloomberg News.

Click here to read the entire story on

Gucci unveils a host of DSM-exclusive items

As usual, this Gucci collection is full of decorative statement pieces, but the burnt yellow tracksuit stands out as the perfect mix of casual and luxury. The all-over print puffer is a close second, says Highsnobity.

Click here to read the entire story

Luxury Daily is published each business day. Thank you for reading us. Your feedback is welcome.