

NEWS BRIEFS

Fashion, AI, Mercedes, luxury destinations and Rosewood – News briefs

December 12, 2018

Rosewood Hotel CEO Sonia Cheng. Image credit: Rosewood

By STAFF REPORTS

Today in luxury:

Fashion revolution has begun, and artificial intelligence is having a big say

Subscribe to Luxury Daily
Plus: Just released
State of Luxury 2019 Save $246 ▶

When Thailand's King Bhumibol Adulyadej died in October 2016, a low- to mid-end Hong Kong fashion brand sold out of black shirts and white ones, the colors of respect worn during the official mourning period, almost overnight.

Click here to read the entire story on NYTimes

Mercedes-Benz releases internal crash test results of EQC electric SUV

Mercedes-Benz is preparing to launch its first next-generation electric vehicle, the EQC electric SUV, and it is already releasing some internal crash test results.

Click here to read the entire story on eletrek

The next big destinations for luxury brands

Where will luxury travelers be jetting off to in 2019? For clues, look at where the world's high-end brands are opening their newest properties.

Click here to read the entire story on Skift

20 minutes with: Rosewood Hotel CEO Sonia Cheng

Sonia Cheng, a third-generation heiress to Hong Kong billionaire Cheng Yu-tung, founder of business conglomerate New World Development and Chow Tai Fook, takes pride in "being unconventional" be it choosing a major at Harvard University, or running luxury and business hotels worldwide.

Click here to read the entire story on Barron's

© 2020 Napean LLC. All rights reserved.

Luxury Daily is published each business day. Thank you for reading us. Your feedback is welcome.