

NEWS BRIEFS

Stocks, LVMH, Google and Marriott – News briefs

January 22, 2019

Louis Vuitton's Connected Watch, Tambour Horizon, runs on Wear OS by Google. Image credit: Louis Vuitton

By STAFF REPORTS

Please be aware the clippings below may require a paid subscription to the listed media outlet to read an article in full.

Subscribe to Luxury Daily
Plus: Just released
State of Luxury 2019 Save $246 ▶

Today in luxury:

Sales of luxury jewelry, watches and boats at risk as stock market swoons

Spending on watches, jewelry, boats and other luxury goods could tumble because of the recent stock market jitters, according an analysis from Goldman Sachs, reports CNBC.

Click here to read the entire article on CNBC

LVMH said eyeing stake in New Guards Group

LVMH Moët Hennessy Louis Vuitton might be getting even closer to one of its star designers, Virgil Abloh, according to Women's Wear Daily.

Click here to read the entire article on Women's Wear Daily

Google spends \$40M on watch tech to fight Apple

Google agreed to acquire smartwatch technology and personnel from Fossil Group Inc. in a bid to boost the search giant's nascent efforts in the category, per Bloomberg.

Click here to read the entire article on Bloomberg

Is Marriott in China barking up the wrong tree?

Business in China can be disconcertingly political. One solution for international hotel chains might be to serve pets as well as people, says the Wall Street Journal.

Click here to read the entire article on the Wall Street Journal

© 2019 Napean LLC. All rights reserved.

Luxury Daily is published each business day. Thank you for reading us. Your feedback is welcome.