

NEWS BRIEFS

British luxury, Tom Ford, NYFW and Jaguar – News briefs

February 8, 2019

Jaguar's E-Pace includes settings that help combat carsickness. Image courtesy of Jaguar Land Rover

By STAFF REPORTS

Today in luxury:

British luxury thrives against odds but now has a new role to play

Subscribe to Luxury Daily
Plus: Just released
State of Luxury 2019 Save $246 ▶

Not all retailers in the U.K. are slashing jobs and announcing profit warnings. Those in the luxury sector have had one of their best runs ever, says Forbes.

Click here to read the entire story on Forbes

Tom Ford RTW fall 2019

Tom Ford, fashion idealist. It's not a context in which one typically thinks of the man who, more than any other designer, is synonymous with sex manifested as clothes. Yet Ford takes a broader view of fashion, seeing it as a powerful life tool. To be your best, to feel your best, dress your best and you're halfway there, according to Women's Wear Daily.

Click here to read the entire story on WWD

America needs to rethink its role in fashion

With New York Fashion Week comes a long list of grievances. There are too few "important" shows. Too many uneventful ones. Too much referencing. Too little creativity, per Business of Fashion.

Click here to read the entire story on Business of Fashion

Jaguar owner posts \$3.8B loss on slump in China

Tata Motors Ltd. reported a third straight quarterly loss as luxury unit Jaguar Land Rover Automotive Plc took an impairment of 278.4 billion rupees ($3.9 billion), mainly on account of challenges in the China market, reports Bloomberg.

Click here to read the entire story on Bloomberg

© 2020 Napean LLC. All rights reserved.

Luxury Daily is published each business day. Thank you for reading us. Your feedback is welcome.