

NEWS BRIEFS

Day's wrap: Sephora, New York taxes, Luxury Portfolio, Bugatti, Gucci and Belstaff

March 11, 2019

Sephora continues its mission in omnichannel retail. image credit: Sephora

By STAFF REPORTS

Sephora grows its physical footprint, while other retailers close stores

LVMH's Sephora is leaning into a heavier bricks-and-mortar presence with the addition of 35 new stores, as other retailers shrink their physical footprints.

Subscribe to Luxury Daily
Plus: Just released
State of Luxury 2019 Save $246 ▶

Click here to read the entire story

Owners of New York pied-terres could soon face additional taxes

In an attempt to help offset the costs of repairing New York's public transportation systems, state lawmakers are exploring a tax on wealthy non-residents who own luxury city apartments.

Click here to read the entire story

Luxury Portfolio retargets interested homebuyers via digital ads

Real estate marketing firm Luxury Portfolio International is tapping digital advertising to retarget users who have visited properties on its Web site.

Click here to read the entire story

Bugatti sees a classic limited-edition reborn

French automaker Bugatti is ushering in a milestone by bringing back an iconic model for the new generation.

Click here to read the entire story

Gucci intertwines cruise collection with history

Italian fashion label Gucci has revealed the upcoming location for its 2020 cruise collection show, which ties into the past of its creative director and the brand.

Click here to read the entire story

Belstaff looks to Topshop executive for marketing growth

British fashion label Belstaff is working on global marketing with a veteran in worldwide content from Topshop.

Click here to read the entire story

© 2020 Napean LLC. All rights reserved.

Luxury Daily is published each business day. Thank you for reading us. Your feedback is welcome.