

NEWS BRIEFS

Beauty ingredients, Mercedes, Tesla and Virgil Abloh – News briefs

March 12, 2019

Photographed by Angelo Penetta, Vogue, Special Edition Best Dressed 2012. Image credit: Vogue

By STAFF REPORTS

Please be aware the clippings below may require a paid subscription to the listed media outlet to read an article in full.

Subscribe to Luxury Daily
Plus: Just released
State of Luxury 2019 Save $246 ▶

Today in luxury:

Are your beauty products toxic? A new senate bill aims to tackle unregulated ingredients

It's been almost 80 years since Congress passed legislation to manage the beauty industry, but a new bill that was introduced yesterday would completely change the way we regulate cosmetics, says Vogue.

Click here to read the entire story on Vogue

Hacker Artist Thomas Webb looks to the future at the Mercedes-Benz EQ home

London-born digital artist and creative hacker, Thomas Webb was one of the main attractions at the Mercedes-Benz EQ Home, where he explored cutting edge ideas around the potential of human-focussed technology, according to HypeBeast.

Click here to read the entire story on HypeBeast

Tesla's "amateur hour" backpedaling prompts analyst head-shaking

Tesla Inc.'s abrupt about-turn in the decision to shutter stores and slash prices raise questions about management decisions at the electric-vehicle maker, analysts covering the stock said, reports Bloomberg.

Click here to read the entire story on Bloomberg

Virgil Abloh, menswear's biggest star

At the Tuileries gardens, in Paris, one recent evening, three cameramen trailed Virgil Abloh, the artistic director of menswear at Louis Vuitton, as he surveyed the runway for his fall/winter show, per The New Yorker.

Click here to read the entire story on The New Yorker

© 2020 Napean LLC. All rights reserved.

Luxury Daily is published each business day. Thank you for reading us. Your feedback is welcome.