

NEWS BRIEFS

Tamara Mellon, SK-II, Bang & Olufsen, McLaren, Tod's and Simon – Live news

March 27, 2019

Irina Shayk for Tod's. Image credit: Tod's

By STAFF REPORTS

Luxury Daily's live news from March 26:

SK-II infuses humor into skincare series

Subscribe to Luxury Daily
Plus: Just released
State of Luxury 2019 Save $246 ▶

Japanese beauty label SK-II is using comedy to educate consumers about its skincare in an entertaining format that aims to break out of the category's usual marketing formula.

Click here to read the entire article

Tamara Mellon aims to spark conversation around Equal Pay Day

U.S. footwear label Tamara Mellon is leaning into the subject of pay equality with efforts surrounding the upcoming Equal Pay Day.

Click here to read the entire article

Bang & Olufsen revenues fall in Q3 amid transformation

Danish electronics and audio company Bang & Olufsen's sales declined 18 percent in the third quarter of fiscal 2018-19, leading it to adjust its outlook for the year.

Click here to read the entire article

McLaren creates life-size Senna out of Legos

British automaker McLaren is building an immersive and playful way for consumers to discover its Senna vehicle through a partnership with Lego.

Click here to read the entire article

Simon launches omnichannel outlet shopping extension

Mall operator Simon is extending its outlet shopping experience online with the beta launch of an ecommerce site.

Click here to read the entire article

Tod's captures handbag connection in candid films

Italian fashion label Tod's is exploring the relationship women have with their handbags in a series of shorts.

Click here to read the entire article

© 2020 Napean LLC. All rights reserved.

Luxury Daily is published each business day. Thank you for reading us. Your feedback is welcome.