

NEWS BRIEFS

Manolo Blahnik, Herms, pickup trucks and Nigeria – News briefs

April 10, 2019

Manolo Blahnik's licensing agreement in the U.S. is ending. Image credit: Manolo Blahnik

---

By STAFF REPORTS

Please be aware the clippings below may require a paid subscription to the listed media outlet to read an article in full.

Subscribe to Luxury Daily
Plus: Just released
State of Luxury 2019 Save $246 ▶

Today in luxury:

Manolo Blahnik prepares to take control of US business

Manolo Blahnik International Ltd. is planning "significant strategic investment" in its North American operations as it prepares to take control of business in the region after 37 years, reports Women's Wear Daily.

Click here to read the entire article on Women's Wear Daily

Can the Birkin bag survive the resale market?

Once upon a time, the Herms Birkin could arguably have been called the rarest handbag in the world. Urban myths abounded about how to buy and who was allowed to buy, rumors of wait lists were taken as gospel and the lucky few able to acquire a bag guarded their insider status as if it were a state secret, per The New York Times.

Click here to read the entire article on The New York Times

That swanky \$70K pickup might not be worth it

Without extras like autopilot tech or huge touchscreens, these trucks don't keep pace with luxury cars but cost just as much, says Bloomberg.

Click here to read the entire article on Bloomberg

Nigeria's parliament recommends tax rise on luxury goods

Nigeria's parliament has asked the government to consider increasing taxes on luxury goods to boost revenues, it said on Tuesday, according to Reuters.

Click here to read the entire article on Reuters

---

© 2020 Napean LLC. All rights reserved.

Luxury Daily is published each business day. Thank you for reading us. Your feedback is welcome.