

NEWS BRIEFS

Nordstrom, real estate, 10 Corso Como and Cadillac – News briefs

May 14, 2019

Cadillac is undergoing a brand reboot. Image credit: Cadillac

By STAFF REPORTS

Please be aware the clippings below may require a paid subscription to the listed media outlet to read an article in full.

Subscribe to Luxury Daily
Plus: Just released
State of Luxury 2019 Save $246 ▶

Today in luxury:

Nordstrom's NYC flagship merges open space with hidden tech

"It took us 118 years to get here, but it finally happened," says Pete Nordstrom, co-president of Nordstrom. "Here" is Manhattan, where the retailer's first New York flagship is set to open on Broadway between 57th and 58th Streets in late October, per Vogue Business.

Click here to read the entire article on Vogue Business

The real estate market is hot again unless you're selling a luxury home

It's peak home-buying season, and conditions in some of the country's previously super-heated housing markets are dramatically different from a year ago, when homes were hard to come by and prices were sky high, reports NBC News.

Click here to read the entire article on NBC News

10 Corso Como to exit China

Despite China's booming appetite for luxury fashion, stiff competition and poor management has led another fashion retailer to exit the market, says Women's Wear Daily.

Click here to read the entire article on Women's Wear Daily

GM looks to jump-start Cadillac again

Cadillac's U.S. comeback has taken another detour. General Motors Co. has been trying for decades to revive Cadillac in the U.S. luxury car market, where it was once the standard-bearer but now is No. 5 in sales behind BMW, Mercedes-Benz, Lexus and Audi, according to the Wall Street Journal.

Click here to read the entire article on the Wall Street Journal

© 2020 Napean LLC. All rights reserved.

Luxury Daily is published each business day. Thank you for reading us. Your feedback is welcome.