

NEWS BRIEFS

Versace, How to Spend It, Aston Martin and Gulfstream – News briefs

July 2, 2019

Donatella Versace rode on the Stonewall float during New York's Pride celebration. Image credit: Versace

By STAFF REPORTS

Please be aware the clippings below may require a paid subscription to the listed media outlet to read an article in full.

Subscribe to Luxury Daily
Plus: Just released
State of Luxury 2019 Save $246 ▶

Today in luxury:

Donatella Versace has long been a gay icon. Now it's official.

Where else would the high priestess of Italian glamour end up but as a Stonewall Ambassador riding around on a float? asks The New York Times.

Click here to read the entire article on The New York Times

How to Spend It and earn it: Gillian de Bono on the FT title's future

After 25 years, Gillian de Bono has bid farewell to How to Spend It, the Financial Times' luxury supplement, and unlike many longstanding magazine editors here, she's left of her own accord, with profit on the balance sheet and revenue on the upswing, per Women's Wear Daily.

Click here to read the entire article on Women's Wear Daily

Investindustrial could increase Aston Martin stake

Investindustrial is looking to increase its stake in luxury car maker Aston Martin Lagonda Global Holdings PLC, whose shares have lost nearly half their value since being listed on the London Stock Exchange last year, according to the Wall Street Journal.

Click here to read the entire article on the Wall Street Journal

Luxury-jet market abuzz over possible bigger, faster Gulfstream

General Dynamics Corp. is poised to begin deliveries of a new Gulfstream corporate jet, spurring expectations that the company will soon unveil its much-anticipated next aircraft, says Bloomberg.

Click here to read the entire article on Bloomberg

© 2020 Napean LLC. All rights reserved.

Luxury Daily is published each business day. Thank you for reading us. Your feedback is welcome.