

NEWS BRIEFS

Kering, Ralph Lauren, Gucci, BMW, Lagardre and Wealth-X – Live news

July 26, 2019

Gucci's watches and jewelry campaign stars Chris Lee. Image courtesy of Gucci

By STAFF REPORTS

Luxury Daily's live news from July 25:

Lagardre looks to grow travel retail business with acquisition

Subscribe to Luxury Daily
Plus: Just released
State of Luxury 2019 Save $246 ▶

French media group Lagardre is acquiring Belgium-based International Duty Free (IDF), in a move that will make it the second largest travel retail operator and third largest duty-free airport retailer.

Click here to read the entire article

BMW, Volkswagen align with California for stricter emissions standards

Four automakers are linking with the state of California to create a framework for reducing car emissions, working towards standards that are more stringent than the proposed national regulations.

Click here to read the entire article

Kering's revenues up 18.6pc in H1

French luxury group Kering saw double-digit growth in the first half of 2019, driven by both its direct-operated retail channels and wholesale.

Click here to read the entire article

Gucci takes time to read in watches and jewelry campaign

Italian fashion label Gucci is professing a love of books in a jewelry campaign set in a 318-year-old library.

Click here to read the entire article

Wealth-X launches subscription service for data screening

Ultra-high-net-worth data firm Wealth-X is giving companies the ability to do their own data screening through the launch of a subscription-based software.

Click here to read the entire article

Ralph Lauren to be profiled in upcoming documentary

U.S. fashion designer Ralph Lauren will be at the center of a new documentary airing on HBO this fall.

Click here to read the entire article

© 2020 Napean LLC. All rights reserved.

Luxury Daily is published each business day. Thank you for reading us. Your feedback is welcome.