

NEWS BRIEFS

Virgil Abloh, Tokyo Olympics, Shanghai Tang and luxury ranches News briefs

August 23, 2019

Virgil Abloh. Image credit: LVMH, photo by Fabien Montique.

By STAFF REPORTS

Please be aware the clippings below may require a paid subscription to the listed media outlet to read an article in full.

Subscribe to Luxury Daily
Plus: Just released
State of Luxury 2019 Save $246 ▶

Today in luxury:

Can Virgil Abloh fit in a museum?

There is one room in "Figures of Speech," the Virgil Abloh exhibition at the Museum of Contemporary Art Chicago, that vividly demonstrates how his aesthetic principles, emotional range and commercial ambitions all cohabitate cozily, per The New York Times.

Click here to read the entire article on The New York Times

Tokyo Olympics offering \$60K luxury packages

Tokyo is shaping up as a very pricey Olympics, according to the Associated Press.

Click here to read the entire article on the Associated Press

What Shanghai Tang's rise, fall and return means for luxury fashion

The cross-cultural brand's former creative director reflects on building an upscale Asian-inspired label and the transformation of China into a global luxury market, says Vogue Business.

Click here to read the entire article on Vogue Business

Baby Boomers are leaving behind a trail of luxury ranches

Decades ago, a generation of America's wealthiest, raised on television shows like "Howdy Doody" and "The Lone Ranger," headed west with dreams of owning some of the country's most prestigious ranches. Now, as those John Wayne-loving baby boomers age out of the lifestyle or die, they or their children are looking to sell those trophy properties, reports the Wall Street Journal.

Click here to read the entire article on the Wall Street Journal

© 2020 Napean LLC. All rights reserved.

Luxury Daily is published each business day. Thank you for reading us. Your feedback is welcome.