

NEWS BRIEFS

Dior, Gucci, Bucherer and real estate – News briefs

September 24, 2019

Gucci's spring/summer 2019 show. Image credit: Gucci

By STAFF REPORTS

Please be aware the clippings below may require a paid subscription to the listed media outlet to read an article in full.

Subscribe to Luxury Daily
Plus: Just released
State of Luxury 2019 Save $246 ▶

Today in luxury:

Dior's Maria Grazia Chiuri talks sustainability

Maria Grazia Chiuri is thinking green. In the run-up to her spring 2020 runway show for Dior on Tuesday, the designer has been delving into the brand's archives and in particular its rich tradition of floral designs while trying to imagine how that heritage could be updated to address today's climate crisis, says Women's Wear Daily.

Click here to read the entire article on Women's Wear Daily

Gucci faces possible backlash for straitjackets at Milan show

Kering SA's Gucci faces a possible backlash for showing straitjackets, meant to make a statement about self-expression and not to be sold in stores, at Milan Fashion Week, according to Bloomberg.

Click here to read the entire article on Bloomberg

Tourneau teaches Bucherer how to do certified pre-owned luxury watches

When Bucherer, Europe's biggest luxury watch retailer, bought Tourneau in January last year, the North American market looked forward to a shot in the arm for the company thanks to its wealth and prestige with the Swiss watchmaking community, reports Watch Pro.

Click here to read the entire article on Watch Pro

Chinese US homebuying to hit 8-year low, says leading property site

U.S. home sales to Chinese buyers are likely to drop to an eight-year low in the year ending next March as a prolonged Sino-U.S. trade war hits demand, according to estimates from Chinese real estate Web site Juwai.com, per Reuters.

Click here to read the entire article on Reuters

© 2020 Napean LLC. All rights reserved.

Luxury Daily is published each business day. Thank you for reading us. Your feedback is welcome.